

Semester Program

Academic Discipline

Methods on Knowledge Creation

GENERAL OBJECTIVE:

Read and analyze technical and academic texts independently and produce research projects for various purposes.

SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES:

- a) Reading academic texts on a variety of topics and purposes.
- b) Identify relevant theories important to the concept of knowledge creation and virtual knowledge
- c) Understand the way knowledge is created and distributed in the context of public policy making by the use of different technologies
- d) Comparatively analyze technical and academic texts.
- e) Produce the parts of a research project in English.

PROGRAM:

1. Introduction.
2. Policy perspectives on knowledge.
3. State of the art Knowledge creation and virtual.
4. Knowledge creation and distribution: information systems.
5. Knowledge creation and distribution: social media.
6. Knowledge creation and distribution: distribution.
7. How to summarize information for various purposes.
8. The construction of the paraphrase and its use in interdiscursive relationships.

9. General elements of the research project

10. Analysis of research projects of varied themes

11. Research project: state of the art

12. Research project: abstract

13. Research project: introduction

14. Research project: literature review

15. Research project: qualitative method

16. Research project: quantitative method

17. Research project: case study

18. Research project: research hypothesis and research objectives

19. Research project: relationships between parts of the text.

20. Presentation of the completed research project

